Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

I voted party-line Republican to lower, not raise taxes. I will do the same in the next election, but If I discover that my Republican congressman is backing the FCC in an attempt to extort money from cell-phone users through unfair taxation, I will do everything in my power to make sure that any taxoholic congressman is not re-elected.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Sid Shams
